Inflight catering can make a significant difference to passenger satisfaction. A meal, a snack, or a retail opportunity can greatly add to their onboard experience.

The galley cart is an important piece of equipment for every airline. Not only does it allow crew to provide an efficient catering service, it also provides the airline with a means to increase retail revenue, meaning that downtime due to maintenance and repair can be costly.

Sovereign has rapidly developed an enviable reputation for the superior quality and reliability of its maintenance, repair and service of all types of galley cart. We are an EASA part-145 approved maintenance organisation with C6 (equipment) rating, authorised to issue an EASA Form 1 to certify that the galley cart can be returned to service.

Our current client list includes some of the UK's major airlines. Each airline is different and has its unique requirements. We have the expertise to work in close partnership with our clients, providing a consultancy service to tailor a cost-effective maintenance package that suits the needs of the airline and adds value.
